A new history of India's eastward-looking diplomacy and statecraft

This book scripts a new history of India's eastward-looking diplomacy and statecraft. Narrated against the backdrop of separatist resistance within India's own northeastern states, as well as rivalry with Beijing and Islamabad in Myanmar and Bangladesh, it offers a simple but compelling argument. In his chronicle of a state's struggle to overcome war, displacement and interventionism, Avinash Paliwal lays bare the limits of independent India's influence in its near east.

AVINASH PALIWAL, PhD, is reader in international relations at SOAS University of London, specializing in South Asian strategic affairs. A former journalist and foreign affairs analyst, he is the author of India's Near East: A New History and My Enemy's Enemy: India in Afghanistan from the Soviet Invasion to the US Withdrawal.

Why is Jamsetji Tata relevant today?

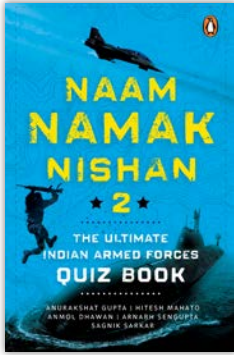

Jamsetji Tata pioneered the modern Indian industry. He was a key catalyst in the economic growth and development of the country.

From Empress Mills to the iron and steel plant, from the establishment of Indian Institute of Science to the building of the Taj Mahal Hotel, Jamsetji's vision made India stand tall. In this carefully researched account, R Gopalakrishnan and Harish Bhat provide insights into the entrepreneurial principles of Jamsetji, which contributed to the creation of a successful and enduring enterprise.

The book delves into the institutionalization of Tata values by Jamsetji and his successors, highlighting their enduring contribution to India's industrial development. It brings to life the vision of Jamsetji Tata through engaging real-life stories and anecdotes, showcasing the creation of iconic brands like Tata Tea, Tata Motors, Titan, and Tanishq. This unique account explores what made this success possible and what lessons we can learn.

R. GOPALAKRISHNAN is the author of nineteen books and a corporate commentator. He has penned bestsellers like The Case of the Bonsai Manager, When the Penny Drops, A Biography of Innovations, and Crash. Additionally, he has held prominent roles such as the chairman of Unilever Arabia, managing director of Brooke Bond Lipton, vice chairman of Hindustan Lever and director at Tata Sons and various other Tata companies.

HARISH BHAT, an avid marketer and equally passionate author, has written books across diverse genres such as business history, fiction, poetry and humour. Three of his books—Tata Stories, Office Secrets and Tata Log—have been national bestsellers and have also been translated into several Indian languages. Harish has worked with the Tata group for thirty-seven years.

A deeply personal quest for the roots of a nation and an exploration for the meaning in a myth

Demonized after his death, the reign of King Ravana of Lanka and his ancestors, the powerful Mayurangas, has long been obscured by myth. Their kingdom is believed to have extended beyond island's shores, reaching lands across seas—a magnitude unseen again in Lanka. Sunela Jayewardene travelled through Sri Lanka, listening to storytellers and poets, researching folklore and navigating through race and religion to wave together a history of a forgotten landscape.

Her vivid book stitches together the forgotten landscape of King Ravana and his lost kingdom.

SUNELA JAYEWARDENE is recognized as Sri Lanka's leading environmental architect. She has designed several award-winning hotels, including Jetwing Vil Uyana, Colombo Courtyard and Rainforest Ecolodge. Her first book, The Line of Lanka, was nominated for the 2017 Gratiaen Prize.

Rejected from the news, but not from memory: A reporter's notes from beyond the reported news.

In The Company of Violent Men, investigative journalist Siddharthya Roy leads us on an unflinching and deeply personal journey into reporting violent political conflicts in South Asia.

This part memoir, part reportage, crackles with the urgency of war dispatches. And yet, pausing and meditating, it peels back hurried headlines, making readers bear witness to what the reporter saw when he looked beyond the burqa and the beard, beyond the olive-green of one fighter and the camo fatigue of the other, and talked to the humans who wear these facades.

SIDDHARTHYA ROY is an independent journalist specializing in political conflicts and insurgencies across South Asia. After working in engineering and spending years coding, he transitioned to professional journalism in 2011. After earning an MA in politics and global affairs from Columbia University, in 2018, he bagged the Pulitzer centre in crisis reporting grant for his reporting of neo-jihadist groups in South Asia, investigating human trafficking and narco trade in the Rohingya camps.

Understanding Equality and Decoding Inequality in India.

In his new book, Saurabh Kirpal, a senior Supreme Court lawyer, seeks to untangle the philosophical and practical tangents of inequality as prevalent in our country. He presents to the readers the explanation and understanding of the existing laws and discusses theories that allow a close inspection of concerns over a spectrum. Well-researched, insightful and drawn from experience, Who is Equal, positions India at that intersection of equality and inequality, and—a perspective that is retrospective and contemporary.

SAURABH KIRPAL studied physics at St Stephen's College in Delhi, and law at the University of Oxford and did his master's in law at the University of Cambridge. He briefly worked with the UN in Geneva before returning to Delhi, where he has been practising at the Supreme Court for over two decades. He has appeared in a range of matters covering diverse subjects from commercial to constitutional law.

A compelling anthology of stories on the 1965 Indo-Pak War by decorated war veteran Ian Cardozo

The Indo-Pak war of 1965 was a complex all-out war fought on a much bigger scale than the wars of 1947–48, 1962, 1971 and 1999. This account of the war highlights the human dimension of war through the dramatic personal experiences of army and air force officers that astonish and overwhelm one's imagination and will convince the reader that real life is often stranger than fiction. It also brings to light little-known facts that occurred across land, sea and air.

MAJOR GENERAL IAN CARDOZO was commissioned at the Indian Military Academy into the 1st Battalion of the 5th Gorkha Rifles (Frontier Force). Thereafter, he took part in the Sino-Indian war of 1962, the Indo-Pak war of 1965 and the Indo-Pak war of 1971.

Extraordinary tales from the Indo–Pak war of 1965.

In August 1965, 30,000 Pakistani infiltrators crossed the Cease Fire Line (CFL) in Kashmir and began attacking civilians and army personnel. Codenamed 'Operation Gibraltar', this assault involved a mix of trained militia, mercenaries, and Pakistani army personnel. Amidst the devastation, Indian forces retaliated, and captured the strategic Haji Pir pass.

The triumph however was shortlived as the pass was returned under the 'Tashkent Agreement', a bitter pill for the soldiers who had fought tirelessly for it. This book chronicles their courage and sacrifice, offering a poignant glimpse into the lives of those who won the Haji Pir pass, a symbol of both victory and loss for India.

KULPREET YADAV has spent two decades as an officer in uniform and has successfully commanded three ships in his career. Since his retirement as Commandant from the Indian Coast Guard in 2014, he has authored several books in diverse genres, including military history, espionage, and true crime.

An up-close account of Sadhguru Jaggi Vasudev's across-the-world journey to bring to light the condition of our soil

On 22 March 2022, Sadhguru began a global movement to address the world's soil crisis. For this, he embarked on an incredible 100-day, 30,000 km journey across the globe. This book is an exclusive, behind-the-scenes look at the making of the world's largest people's movement where the volunteers from the Isha team relive the awe-inspiring journey of a lone motorcyclist that touched over 4 billion people and brought much-neglected soil into the world's collective awareness.

RADHE JAGGI is a Bharatanatyam dancer who was introduced to the art form by her mother at an early age. She underwent rigorous training at Kalakshetra Foundation, under several reputed gurus. Her other interests vary from literature, fine art and music to scuba diving, mountaineering and travel.

What if one were to analyse the source texts of all the big religions in the world?

It may be the twenty-first century but religious conflicts continue across the world. Today, religion plays an unparalleled role, with people and leaders pitting one religious identity against another. But the key question is: Are all religions fundamentally different from each other? What if we go back to the source texts of all the great religions? Will we find a mountain of differences or a sea of harmony? This book addresses this question and will surprise you with its findings.

TRILOCHAN SASTRY is a professor at IIM Bangalore and a former dean. He is the founder of ADR, an NGO that works on electoral and political reforms, and has received various awards for his academic and social work. He is also the author of The Essentials of Hinduism.

From eminent Bengali author, Bani Basu comes the story of the Bengali diaspora in a rapidly changing America in the 1960s.

Translated from eminent Bengali writer Bani Basu's first novel, The Continents Between tells the story of the Bengali diaspora in America of the 1960s. Looking over their shoulder at the home they left behind, the lives of immigrants Sudeep and Kamalika is suffused with a permanent sense of nostalgia. This is America in the 1960s, and it throws up all the challenges and insecurities they must fight against as they raise their rather American children in a conventional Bengali household.

BANI BASU is the recipient of Siromoni Puraskar, Ananda Puraskar, Bankim Puraskar, the Bhuban Mohini Gold Medal and the Sahitya Akademi Award

DEBALI MOOKERJEA-LEONARD is the Roop Distinguished Professor of English at James Madison University Virginia, USA.

A poignant exploration of the human condition in times of turmoil

Against the backdrop of escalating communal tensions and the gradual erosion of social cohesion, Our City That Year delves into the lives of Shruti, Hanif and Sharad.

Shree's powerful novel offers a visceral and unfiltered glimpse into the collective psyche of a city on the brink. Translated with precision by Daisy Rockwell, the novel serves as a haunting reminder of the dangers of extremism and the fragility of social harmony.

Author of five novels and five short-story collections, GEETANJALI SHREE's work has been translated into various languages. In 2022, she won the International Booker Prize, along with her translator Daisy Rockwell, for Tomb of Sand.

Winner of the DC Books Silver Jubilee Award

Considered one of the finest works in Malayalam literature, this novel is testimony to the insightful Biblical quote about those who have gathered much wealth being equal to those who have very little. The story is about the simple and innocent natives of a village in the backwaters of Kochi. But nature in its various facets—with its diverse flora and fauna—plays an equally important and central role in the novel.

V.J. JAMES is a retired ISRO scientist, and the author seven novels and six short-story collections.

MINISTHY S. is an IAS officer working in the UP cadre. She translates between English, Malayalam and Hindi.

An unforgettable story of love and resistance in India

When star-crossed Vijaya and Krishna meet, they forge an intense bond that is both beautiful and dangerous.

When violent uprisings rip across the countryside and the Marxist, ultra-left Naxalite movement arrives in Irumi, they are forced to navigate the insurmountable differences of class warfare—while being irresistibly drawn back to each other, their childhood bond now full of possibilities neither of them are willing to admit. The Fertile Earth is a vast, ambitious debut that is equal parts historical, political, and human, with the enduring ties of love and family loyalty at its heart.

RUTHVIKA RAO is a graduate of the Iowa Writers' Workshop, where she was a Truman Capote Fellow and recipient of the Henfield Prize in fiction. Her short fiction has appeared in the Georgia Review, the Southern Review, New Letters and StoryQuarterly.

A visceral, unsparing story about a community buried in the Rann of Kutch

A visceral, unsparing story about a community and a history long buried in the sand of the Rann of Kutch, A Touch of Salt moves through decades, from 1930s Gujarat where Gandhi undertook the march to Dandi, to modern day, where the fight for identity still continues in the region.

A Touch of Salt is the story of Tribhuban and Azad, Mohandas and Kasturba, Malati and Vishnuram, and Agarias, whose legs do not burn when they are cremated because of constant exposure to brine in their salt pans. It is a story of lives lived, lost, and buried in sand and salt.

ANITA AGNIHOTRI is a Bengali writer and poet. Her works have been translated into several major Indian and foreign languages, including English, Swedish and German.

The American dream and a nightmare past

Madras, India. The orphaned girls of St Ursula's convent are destined to be nuns or servants, but seventeen-year-old Savi dreams of escape. Responsible and good with languages, she is working as a governess for the wealthy Nandiyar family at their country estate when the horrific events of a single night force her into a dangerous journey. She re-emerges in America under a new identity, with her homeland forever in her rear-view. Forty years later, known to all as Missy, she is the embodiment of the American dream—a successful business owner in Chicago, pillar of the South Asian community and mother to two brilliant, stubborn young women. When a charming doctor enters their lives, it sets off a chain of events that puts their carefully constructed world in jeopardy, with the revelation that secrets cannot be outrun.

RAGHAV RAO was born in Mumbai, grew up in London, Los Angeles and south India, and now lives in Chicago. Missy is his first novel.

A compelling translation of Valmiki's Ramayana with extra chapters on Vedic life, Rama's descendants and the story of Valmiki

Although Valmiki's Ramayana has been enjoyed for millennia, it is not widely known that it is the oldest existing piece of literature in the world.

This translation of Valmiki's Ramayana, Rama: A Man For All Ages, is a compelling read while remaining true to the original work. It brings Valmiki's ancient Sanskrit epic to you in lucid English without diluting the poet's intent.

PRIYA ARORA is an author and spiritual enthusiast. She is particularly interested in Vedanta, promoting its beautiful philosophy of universal peace and oneness through her writings. Her journey includes learning Sanskrit to appreciate Vedic works in their original form.

A beautiful translation of Kalki's magnum opus, by his granddaughter and theatre artist Gowri Ramnarayan

Ponniyin Selvan is considered Kalki's magnum opus and has remained immensely popular ever since it was published in the 1950s. Based in tenth-century Tamil Nadu, it explores the early life of Emperor Rajaraja. In Fresh Floods, the first in our six-part series, Vallavaraiyan Vandiyatevan, a scion of the Vaanar clan, sets out across the Chozha land to deliver a secret message from Crown Prince Aditya Karikalan. This triggers a series of events that reveal a sinister conspiracy. Based on real characters and incidents, the book unfolds at a riveting pace.

GOWRI RAMNARAYAN is a playwright, theatre director, journalist and vocal accompanist to legendary musician M.S. Subbulakshmi. She has translated two plays by Marathi playwright Vijay Tendulkar, and the Tamil short stories and biography of Kalki Krishnamurthy.

An impassioned lament, a nostalgic tribute and a poignant ode to boyhood

When a bureaucrat who witnessed the Bhopal gas tragedy passes away from Covid, he leaves behind his oldest friend an unfinished book. When KK pieces together Munná's manuscript, he discovers his late comrade all over again. Even as he grapples with India's complex political landscape and the challenges of upholding Gandhi's ideals in a rapidly changing world, the bifocal lenses of Munná's experiences and his own introspections serve as a turbulent reckoning.

KRISHNA KUMAR is a bilingual author who has published several books in Hindi and English. Two of his books, Prejudice and Pride and Battle for Peace, were published by Penguin India. Some of his other books are What is Worth Teaching, Politics of Education in Colonial India, A Pedagogue's Romance and Smaller Citizens. A new perspective on the Ramayana that draws research from performance traditions in villages of south India as well as the Ramakien

Rama is sixteen years when Sage Viswamithra takes him to the Dandaka forest. Lakshmana accompanies them. At first, the spirit of adventure fills the two teenage brothers, but when they enter the forest in broad daylight, it is a curtain of pitch darkness. There is a smell of decaying flesh and flashes of fire. The gloom of animals, birds and foliage in terror affects Rama deeply. For the first time, he feels fear. He hears derisive laughter—is it from the forest, or within him? This impact of the forests is packed with twists and reflections, and hosts the strength of relationships with nature that Rama, Sita and Lakshmana make to restore balance in life.

VAYU NAIDU is a PhD scholar in epic and oral traditions of Ramayana and Mahabharata. She is a royal literary fund fellow, a visiting fellow at the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art (RADA) teaching Indian theatre, and a professor of practice at SOAS in the School of Arts.
