Biography of man and his public life during yesteryears

Drawing from numerous primary and secondary sources this comprehensive biography introduces Matthai to a new generation, even as it rekindles the memory of a man who has become the victim of collective amnesia. Meticulously researched and engagingly written, it also provides a window to that period in history—Matthai's life and work provide a picture of those tumultuous times as well as describe the thinking that went into the making of modern India. This biography fills an important gap by throwing light on one of the more substantial, but now forgotten men, in the public life of those times.

BAKHTIAR K DADABHOJY is the author of nine books. He was educated at Hindu College, Delhi University, and the Delhi School of Economics.

A one-of-a-kind book about why Gandhi struggled to control non-violence

Gandhi was the twentieth century's most acclaimed political thinker-practitioner of non-violence. His method of non-violence, however, was under trial during the ferocity of Partition. Why was it so? Gandhi: The End of Non-violence explores this crisis in depth.

MANASH FIRAQ BHATTACHARJEE is a writer, political theorist and poet. He is the author of Nehru and the Spirit of India (Penguin Viking, 2022).

An accurate portrait of India's frenetic telecom sector

Today, mobile connections are readily accessible. But there was a time when only the elite had access to a phone provided by the sole operator: the Government of India. Telecom Wars begins its narration from then, traversing the early years of the mobile phone industry. It portrays the fierce competition as Tata, Birla, Reliance and Bharti bid to capture the lion's share of India's billion voices. Alongside, India's institutions to regulate and manage the sector also evolved—the Telecom Regulatory Authority of India (TRAI) and the Telecom Disputes Settlement and Appellate Tribunal (TDSAT). Policymakers, entrepreneurs and bureaucrats worked tirelessly to change India's cellular topography.

DEEPALI GUPTA, former senior assistant editor at Economic Times, has been a financial journalist for two decades, covering the economy and large corporate houses in India. Over the span of her career, she has worked with the Indian Express Group, Network18, Wall Street Journal and Dow Jones Newswires.

The naval role in the Sri Lankan Civil War

The Turning Point dwells on the naval role in the defeat of the LTTE in the Sri Lankan Civil War (2006–09). The Sri Lankan Navy played a critical role in ensuring that the high seas were policed and the LTTE could not therefore obtain weapons and fuel, thus severely reducing their ability to fight.

ADMIRAL OF THE FLEET WASANTHA
KARANNAGODA was the naval chief between 2003 and 2009 when the Sri Lankan Armed Forces decisively defeated the LTTE and ended the civil war in Sri Lanka.

Leadership Lessons from the Teachings of Srila Prabhupada, Founder Acharya of ISKCON

An indispensable book for all professionals, Sing, Dance and Lead is an intervention at the intersection of management theory and theological pedagogy, and bridges the worlds of building managers, and inspiring devotees. It considers how you can view the act of working, what 'service' really means, and how loyalty to an organization can be extended to bring into conception a deeper commitment to the divine.

HINDOL SENGUPTA is a multiple award-winning historian and author. He has been a Chevening Scholar at the University of Oxford, a Knight-Bagehot Fellow at Columbia University, and has a doctorate from the Geneva School of Diplomacy. He is a World Economic Forum Young Global Leader. This is his 11th book.

The remarkable life of Rajendra Yadav

A stalwart of Hindi literature, Rajendra Yadav was one of the most controversial figures of the literary world. His charming personality, open living style and scathing criticism of contemporary writers drew both ire and admiration. He was also known for helping Dalit writing and promoting new authors. Mud Mud ke Dekhta Hoon, translated by noted journalist Poonam Saxena, is a collection of his writings that also exposes a man much criticized for his marriage to Mannu Bhandari, a doyen of Hindi literature, who held him up for thirty-two years before finally giving up on him.

POONAM SAXENA, a former columnist with Hindustan Times, writes and translates extensively from Hindi literature.

A woman lost and found and lost again . . .

In a world that was unfair to women, Mannu Bhandari grew up to be a sensitive, fiery and outspoken story writer. Getting married to a man from her own field proved to be the death of her own writing, for the next decade. In this book, Mannu ji lays bare the fault lines of her controversial marriage—of being together and yet completely alone. With candid ease and sentimentality, she takes the reader through her life, revealing her writing genius and claiming her rightful position as one of the best writers in Hindi literature.

POONAM SAXENA, a former columnist with Hindustan Times, writes and translates extensively from Hindi literature.

The gripping story of Indira Gandhi's premiership—and the profound influence she had on India

Indira Gandhi's ascent as prime minister of India in 1966 was entirely unforeseen. But she soon emerged as one of the most powerful political leaders of her times, who transformed the world's largest democracy. She served as prime minister for a remarkable fifteen years, leaving behind a complex and deeply controversial legacy.

In this fascinating account, Srinath Raghavan tells the story of Indira Gandhi's political career and the momentous changes that India experienced under her leadership.

SRINATH RAGHAVAN is a professor of history and international relations at Ashoka University, New Delhi. He is the author of several acclaimed books, including India's War: The Making of Modern South Asia and Fierce Enigmas: A History of the United States in South Asia.

caste resistance around the world, from one of India's leading public intellectuals

Suraj Milind Yengde shines a light on the Dalit experience internationally, from indentured labourers in the nineteenth-century Caribbean to present-day migrant workers in the Middle East. Combining history, ethnography and archival research, he offers a compelling, comparative approach to caste and race from ancient times to today. What have been the impacts of colonialism, religion and nationalism on caste-based hierarchies worldwide? What can we learn from caste-related movements in India and internationally? Why hasn't the South Asian diaspora embraced the anti-caste struggles of the homeland? And what are the limits of Dalit-Black solidarity?

SURAJ MILIND YENGDE is a scholar and activist. Named one of the '25 Most Influential Young Indians' by GQ magazine and the 'Most Influential Young Dalit' by Zee, he is the bestselling author of Caste Matters.

The memoirs of the legendary General S.M. Shrinagesh, India's second Chief of Army Staff

Gen. Shrinagesh belongs to the earliest group of Indian military officers whose success shattered the myth then prevalent that Indians were incapable of providing military leadership. He masterminded the audacious stratagem of overcoming well-entrenched Pakistani defences at Zoji La with the use of tanks. Never before had anyone conceived that tanks could be used at snow-bound Himalayan heights. Later, as Chief of Army Staff, General Shrinagesh had perhaps a harder battle on his hands, namely to convince the government of a newly-independent India that the country needed strong armed forces for its security, notwithstanding its espousal of a credo of peace and non-violence.

GENERAL SATYAWANT MALLANNA SHRINAGESH retired on 7 May 1957, completing thirty-four years of distinguished military service. Post-retirement, he served as the governor of Assam from 1959 to 1962, the governor of Andhra Pradesh from 1962 to 1964, and finally Governor of Mysore (now Karnataka) from 1964 to 1965. He also served as the principal of the Administrative Staff College of India in Hyderabad from 1957 to 1959.

A forgotten struggle brought to light

In the early 1900s, Punjabis, mostly Sikhs, began migrating to Canada and USA. Living in a free country, they began to dream of a free India as well.

Together, they hatched a plan. They would all go back to India and incite the Indians in the British Army, many of them Punjabis, to mutiny.

This is the story of that movement.

RANA PREET GILL is a veterinary officer with the Animal Husbandry Department of the Punjab Government and a history enthusiast.

Chronicles of an educator who introduced family planning and birth control

The 'Samaaj Swaasthyakaar' man, Raghunath Dhondo Karve (1882-1953) was among the stormy and controversial personalities of his time in Maharashtra. Raghunathrao studied the subjects of birth control and the science of lovemaking with great dedication. Later, he began publishing a monthly magazine called 'Samaaj-Swaasthya' (Health of the Society). The thoughts that Raghunathrao propagated through this magazine were too radical for the society of his time. The orthodox raised obstacles to his work and filed cases against him in the court of law and he was convicted twice.

NADEEM KHAN has been a teacher of English since 1973, retiring as associate professor in 2010. He was the founder director of the Western Regional Centre of the Indian Institute of Mass Communication, Ministry of Information and Broadcasting, from 2011 to 2018.

Why are the well-heeled fleeing India?

Why are Indians, especially wealthy ones, migrating abroad in such large numbers? Why are so many schools offering international certifications? And what does it mean when so many young Indians go away to foreign universities for their degrees?

Many, many Indians are seeking a first world life. The number of wealthy Indians giving up citizenship is rising with ageing countries in search of people offering citizenship at a price. Even as India seeks to redefine itself as Bharat and pursues the dream of being 'viksit' by 2047, a globalized Indian elite wants to be part of that developed world today. They want their 'Amrit kaal' now.

In Charlottesville, Pulitzer finalist Deborah Baker explores the eponymous city's response to civil unrest and its historical parallels Officials seemed unable or unwilling to grasp a looming threat, even as others saw more clearly what was coming and, at great personal risk, worked to warn and defend their city. To understand why their warnings fell on deaf ears, Baker does a deep dive into American history. In her research she discovers an uncannily similar event that took place when an emissary of the fascist poet Ezra Pound arrived in Charlottesville intending to start a race war. Baker shows how a city more associated with Thomas Jefferson became a flashpoint in a continuing struggle over our nation's founding myths.

DEBORAH BAKER is the author of The Last Englishmen, Making a Farm and In Extremis, a Pulitzer Prize finalist in Biography, as well as A Blue Hand and The Convert, a National Book Award finalist. She divides her time between India and New York.

The untold story of a brave warrior and a member of the Maratha clan who has been denied our attention

Born sometime around 1704, the brave Murarirao Ghorpade scripted many tales of military conquests, espionage, forbidden love and loyalty in eighteenth century Deccan. In an era marred by treachery and expediency, Murarirao's seventy plus years of survival by instinct, bravery, statesmanship, valour and loyalty are worthy of being recorded. In this riveting book, the authors aim to bring to light the many facets of this great warrior.

REETA RAMAMURTHY GUPTA is an Indian writer who specializes in narrative non-fiction. This is her sixth book.

INDRAJEET GHORPADE is a descendant of the Maratha clan of warriors of the Deccan. His hobbies include wildlife photography and conservation. This is his first literary work.

The inspiring story of Colonel Rajinder Kumar Sharma who is considered a living legend in the Indian Army

The only person to receive the Kirti Chakra and Shaurya Chakra in the same investiture ceremony, Col. R.K. Sharma's Army career is legendary.

From reclaiming Point 5465 in the Kargil War to counter-insurgency success in the north-east, where he redefined Assam Rifles' ties with locals, and serving as a UN peacekeeper in Congo, Raj embodied courage, humility, and leadership. This is a story of valour in war, courage in life, and what it truly means to serve and lead as an officer.

COLONEL RAJINDER KUMAR SHARMA, KC, SC, SM is a retired decorated Indian Army officer of the Grenadiers.

Diverse LGBTQIA+ writers from South Asia and beyond capture the realities of queer life in a way that honours the contradictions and fluxes of the human experience

In mainstream cultural spaces, faith, spirituality, culture and tradition are often seen as adversaries to LGBTQIA+ rights. This groundbreaking collection of fiction, poetry and life-writing is an attempt to shift the narrative about what it means to be queer in a world where polarization and disinformation fuels hate.

KAZIM ALI is award-winning poet, writer and translator. He is currently a professor of literature at the University of California, San Diego.

This is a parallel history of resistance to Indira Gandhi's dictatorial rule between 1975 and 1977, when an internal emergency was proclaimed in India.

The events here unfold entirely in the United States of America surrounded by the echoes of emergency action in India. The book has an intimate historiographic style and is narrated through the lives, actions and worldviews of chosen protagonists, who with perseverance and principle constructed a classic Gandhian movement.

SUGATA SRINIVASARAJU is a journalist, author and columnist who has written for nearly three decades at the intersection of politics, culture and contemporary history. In the past, he has edited newspapers, run television channels and digital platforms.

The background features a white base with several large, organic, wavy shapes in a textured orange color. There are also three smaller, irregular shapes in a light pink color: one in the bottom left, one in the middle right, and one in the bottom right. A white rounded rectangle is centered horizontally, containing the word 'FICTION' in a bold, pink, sans-serif font.

Winner of the English PEN Translates award, Heart Lamp represents the varied realities of contemporary Muslim women in South India, captured with fearlessness and empathy by Banu Mushtaq

In Heart Lamp, Banu Mushtaq exquisitely captures the everyday lives of women and girls in Muslim communities in southern India. Published originally in the Kannada, these portraits of family and community tensions testify to Mushtaq's years as a journalist and lawyer, in which she tirelessly championed women's rights and protested all forms of caste and religious oppression. Written in a style at once witty, vivid, colloquial, moving and excoriating, it's in her characters — the sparky children, the audacious grandmothers, the buffoonish maulvis and thug brothers, the oft-hapless husbands, and the mothers above all, surviving their feelings at great cost — that Mushtaq emerges as an astonishing writer and observer of human nature, building disconcerting emotional heights out of a rich spoken style. Her opus has garnered both censure from conservative quarters as well India's most prestigious literary awards; this is a collection sure to be read for years to come.

BANU MUSHTAQ is a writer, activist and lawyer from Karnataka, India. She is the author of six short story collections, a novel, an essay collection and a poetry collection. She writes in Kannada and has won the Karnataka Sahitya Academy and Daana Chintamani Attimabbe awards.

DEEPA BHASTHI is a writer and literary translator based in Kodagu, southern India. Her columns, essays and cultural criticism have been published in India and internationally. Her translation of Banu Mushtaq's stories has won her the English PEN Translates award.

Stories from the meeting point of two cultures

A heartbroken father in London turns to the Beatles to make sense of what he has lost. An antique dealer in Bombay rejects jingoism in favour of racism. Two immigrants in Toronto look for ways of belonging with a local rock band. And, in Paris, a tourist rejects long-held ideas about trust. The East and West have clashed in innumerable ways since each first acknowledged the existence of the other. The stories of Songs Our Bodies Sing are set at these points of intersection. This collection pulls back a curtain ever so slightly, in ways that are strange yet tender, to show how our struggles to understand the human condition are the same, wherever we are.

LINDSAY PEREIRA is the author of, among other books, The Memoirs of Valmiki Rao, which won the Godrej Literature Live! Fiction Book of the Year Award 2024.

The next big voice from Kannada literature, now in English!

Set in contemporary Bangalore, What's Your Price, Mr Shivaswamy is an elegantly moving and deeply engaging story about a family confronting new urban realities. Through the story of a family in crisis, this novel explores social and philosophical questions about the values that sustain us and the constant tussle between materialist dreams and spiritual goals. Translated into English by the author himself, this novel was originally published in Kannada as Ondodu Talegu Ondodu Bele.

An award-winning writer, M.R. DATTATHRI is a name to reckon with in Kannada literature, celebrated for his innovative ideas and compassionate characters. What's Your Price, Mr Shivaswamy is one of Dattathri's best-loved books, and would also be the first of his works to reach an English readership.

Mythology meets today's world in this stellar 2025 debut

On the edge of tomorrow, a doomsday clock ticks when ancient warriors from the Age of Mahabharat infiltrate our era. As the year 2025 approaches, an unlikely hero becomes the key to the war of the gods; seeking the secrets of his ancestors while being hunted by the immortal Ashwatthama who wants to bring the Mahabharat to the present times. The protagonist, Divyansh, finds an unlikely companion in Agastya, a mysterious being who might hold the answers to the chaos that'll descend on the planet. A grand adventure begins, weaving through the labyrinth of time and destiny, as the Great Mahabharat War arrives in our times.

DIVYANSH MUNDRA is a novelist, screenwriter and content creator. Over the last decade he has created one of India's biggest fiction storytelling pages, 'Fiction with Divyansh', with around 400 thousand followers and 'Mahabharat with Divyansh', with close to 300 thousand followers and over 150 million people in just the last year. He works as a screenwriter during the day with a major Indian production house, writing for web and movies, while creating viral content at night.

Clever and gripping, The Dead Know Nothing is packed with intrigue and compelling characters

Disgraced after failing the seminary exams, Thankachan has returned to his old life. On Fathima Island in the Ashtamudi archipelago, his days are clouded over by the fear of never making anything of himself. A dead body surfaces one day, then another. Soon, a murder case considered solved years ago is suddenly once again wide open. A small island community, a murder mystery, and whispers of a new romance—The Dead Know Nothing is ripe with the energy of everyday life and deeply perceptive of its social tensions.

KISHORE RAM is an English professor and writer based in Kerala. He has been published in various magazines and journals. He was one of twenty-two writers from around the world to participate in the first batch of the University of East Anglia's short-term international fiction writing course.

Another nail-biting, spine-tingling police thriller from bestselling author, Amit Lodha!

The normally-rule-following IPS officer Arjun Kumar finds himself entangled in an affair that he never saw coming. Passion turns to peril when an untimely death threatens to implicate him in murder. As he scrambles to cover his tracks, the walls start closing in—his wife's growing suspicion, an unscrupulous Godman tightening his grip on power and a faceless stranger lurking in the shadows. As the truth edges closer, he must decide whether to keep running or fight. The line between duty and betrayal has never been thinner.

AMIT LODHA is an IPS officer currently serving as ADGP of BSE. He has previously authored Bihar Diaries: The True Story of How Bihar's Most Dangerous Criminal Was Caught (2018) and Life in the Uniform: Adventures of an IPS Officer in Bihar (2022).

Valuable lessons from of one of India's most prominent business communities- Part of the illustrious Gurcharan Das Indian Business History series

The Nattukottai Chettiars were the most prominent traditional business community from the Tamil region. This book is the enthralling story of the community's spirit of enterprise that led many of them to seek their fortunes overseas, with all the twists and turns. The lynchpin of their overseas business was the unique intra-community banking structure they evolved. For students of history, business, and for modern entrepreneurs, the book underlines the perils of over-commitment to a single line of activity, importance of gauging the economic winds of change and diversifying into emerging and promising sectors of investment, when such opportunities arise.

RAMAN MAHADEVAN is a senior economic and business historian. His scholarly contribution lies in the broad area of industrial and capitalist development in colonial South India. Now an independent scholar, he is based in Bangalore.

The Day the Chariot Moved is a tribute to people who make permanent change happen in one lifetime. A unique book on the imperatives for institutional leadership that is relevant across sectors, it humanises the development agenda for policy makers in the government. It makes change agents from the social sector rethink their conventional approach and makes corporate leaders understand the complexities of making large scale change. The stories in this book, told in a language that grips you, makes you rethink many notions of development.

SUBROTO BAGCHI is an entrepreneur, author and public servant. He co-founded Mindtree, India's first venture capital funded software services company that went all the way from idea to IPO.

The background features a central orange sun with rays extending outwards. The sun is partially obscured by a white rounded rectangle containing the word 'POETRY'. The background is a vibrant blue with white, wavy, organic shapes that resemble stylized leaves or petals. The overall aesthetic is modern and artistic.

A poetic journey across Indian cities; a gift to all poetry lovers

The Penguin Book of Poems on the Indian City contains over 200 poems that take readers on an evocative journey through 40 cities across India. The anthology comprises poems written in English and poems translated from over 15 languages (Hindi, Urdu, Oriya, Khasi, Konkani, Assamese, and Nepali, among others). From the 11th-century mystic Goraknath and the 13th-century Sufi Amir Khusrau, to 18th-century literary giants like Felicia Hemans, Mir Taqi Mir, and James Atkinson, this is a rich collection of poets and poems.

This is a collection for not just those who live in the cities featured in this book but to anyone who is familiar with the chaotic, paradoxical, magical, multi-sensory tableau that constitutes life in a city in this part of the world.

By day, BILAL MOIN conducts research on India's political-economy at Yale University. By night, he writes, reads, and edits poetry under his takballus Aflatoon. His writing has appeared in Himal Southasian, the Bangalore Review, the Tipton Poetry Journal, Poetic Bond, Yale Hippopotamus, and the Scholastic Young Writers Anthology. A collection of his experimental haikus was published as 'The Ideajunkyard' (Notion Press, 2018). He was born and raised in Mumbai.

What they said and what it meant?

The spoken and written word are powerful records of history. Given the reams of purple prose and pithy spoken insights cricket has generated, lining up a selection of those is an interesting way to narrate history. Caught Yapping performs this task with great elan.

ABHISHEK MUKHERJEE is the content head at Wisden India. He co-authored Sachin and Azhar at Cape Town; won the Anandji Dossa Award for the Cricket Statistician of the Year in 2019–20; used to be the assistant editor at the Wisden India Almanack and the chief editor at CricketCountry.

The background features several large, organic, hand-drawn shapes in a textured blue color. A prominent shape on the left resembles a large, curved letter 'C'. In the upper right corner, there is a solid orange shape. A smaller orange shape is also visible in the center, partially overlapping the blue shapes. The overall style is minimalist and artistic.
