Publisher's Note

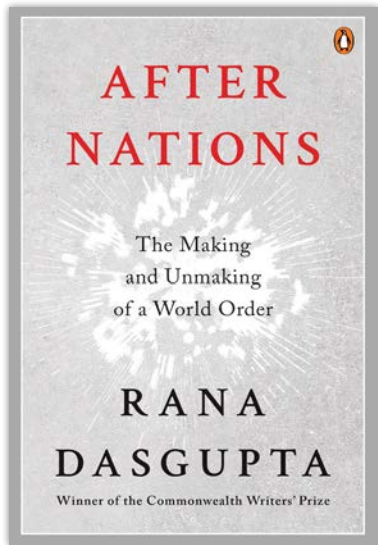

As we reveal our catalogue for January–March 2026, I am elated to share that we will continue to publish promising debut voices and new books from our established authors. Our list offers an eclectic mix of prose, fiction and translation, and I hope you will enjoy the range of books we are proud to publish. Keep on reading with Penguin.

Miles Ashanya

The background of the image is a light cream color, overlaid with numerous organic, flowing shapes in two colors: a muted teal and a bright orange. These shapes are irregular and interlocking, creating a pattern reminiscent of marbled paper or a modern abstract design. The teal shapes are more numerous and larger, while the orange shapes are fewer and smaller, often appearing at the corners or along the edges.

From a prize - winning writer, a sweeping global history of the birth of nation-states and the consequences of their failure

The system of nation-states is in convulsion. As American hegemony unwinds, anxious Western countries slide into xenophobia and debt. Liberal ideas and institutions are losing their prestige; autocracies such as China, Russia and the UAE, by contrast, are rising. For those abandoned by nation-states, meanwhile, there is no future except via life-threatening migration. All in all, the global political order offers human beings ever fewer securities—and ever more threats. Rana Dasgupta traces the formation and rise of this system to explain the causes of its multiple failures today. He takes us from the fall of ancient empires and the expansion of European concepts of money and law, right up to the emergence of twenty-first-century tech firms—which present formidable competition to nation-states—and the epochal restoration of Chinese power. An urgent work of astute political and historical analysis, After Nations is an essential text for anyone seeking to understand why we seem to be losing our political hold on the world—and how we might begin to restore it.

RANA DASGUPTA is the author of two novels and a non-fiction portrait of twenty-first-century Delhi. He has been a visiting fellow in the humanities at Princeton University and has taught as a visiting lecturer at Brown University. His essays have appeared in the Guardian, New Statesman and BBC, and his writing has won the Windham Campbell Prize, the Commonwealth Prize and the Ryszard Kapuściński Award. He lives in Delhi.

Highlights the charismatic yet forgotten K. Sundarji's role in building the Indian Army as it is today

General Krishnaswamy Sundarji was one of India's most cerebral and controversial army chiefs. From the Sumdorong Chu face-off with China to the massive Operation Brasstacks that unsettled Pakistan, his tenure was bold and transformative. Yet he also commanded Operation Blue Star and the ill-fated IPKF mission in Sri Lanka. Known for his audacity, love of technology, and push for a modernized, mechanized army force, Sundarji helped shape India's military and nuclear doctrine.

PROBAL DASGUPTA is the bestselling author of Watershed 1967: India's Forgotten Victory over China. He is a veteran of the Indian Army and now a business leader with a global consultancy, he is advising firms on reputation, business and geopolitical risks.

A unique and unprecedented insider-account on Nepal's history and political transformation

In 1960, King Mahendra Shah summoned a twenty-four-year-old Nepali PhD student in California to serve as the member secretary of National Planning Council. In the extraordinary six-decade long career that followed, Bhekh Bahadur Thapa witnessed first hand the enormous challenges, as well as the heartbreaks and triumphs of nation-building in Nepal. He revisits those times, offering deeply personal observations into the transformation of his country, from a feudal protectorate under the rule of the Rana dynasty to its current-day manifestation as a boisterous federal democratic republic.

BHEKH BAHADUR THAPA became the Member Secretary of Nepal's National Planning Council at the age of twenty-four and then went on to become the Secretary of Finance and the Governor of Nepal Rastra Bank during King Mahendra's reign. Dr Thapa also served as the finance minister during King Birendra's reign.

A riveting journey through history, power and the making of the new global centre—India

In his narrative-defining book Era of India, author Minhaz Merchant examines interlinked civilizational arcs across centuries and millennia. Through much of recorded history, living standards were broadly similar in the Old World—Europe, Asia and Africa.

The discovery of the New World in the Americas and Australasia brought about great change—catastrophic for some, a boon for others. Differences in per capita income between Europeans and Asians were minimal in 1600. By 1900, the gap had risen multiple times. Europe emerged from plague and penury to great wealth.

MINHAZ MERCHANT is a pioneering media entrepreneur, editor and publisher. He is the author of biographies of former Prime Minister Rajiv Gandhi and the late industrialist Aditya Vikram Birla.

In this glamorous memoir, Shalini Passi turns style, strength and self-belief into a way of life

In The Art of Being Fabulous elegance meets passion, and glamour begins from within. In this memoir, Shalini Passi speaks of the celebration of living beautifully and with dignity. Blending style and soulful philosophy, she distills a lifetime of art, fashion and spiritual wisdom into ten rules for a life lived on your own terms.

From couture and creativity to karma and courage, Shalini reveals how true fabulousness isn't about perfection, it's about presence, purpose and power. With her signature mix of grace and grit, she invites readers to embrace individuality and nurture inner strength.

Introspective and instructive, The Art of Being Fabulous is a larger-than-life canvas that calls on the reader to own beautiful mind and life.

SHALINI PASSI is a Delhi-based art collector, artist and philanthropist. A member of the advisory board of Khoj Studios since 2012 and a longstanding patron of the Kochi-Muziris Biennale, she is one of India's most distinctive voices in contemporary art patronage.

A bold, evidence-based reframe of how we think about ageing, performance, and resilience

Want to live stronger, not just longer?

The Longevity Code unlocks the science and strategies behind living a longer, more vibrant life—on your terms. Physician-scientist Dr Sophia Pathai teams up with Olympic coach Pullela Gopichand to explore how resilience, rhythm and daily habits shape your healthspan—the years you live in good health. Drawing from cutting-edge research and lived experience, this book blends lab-tested insights with life-tested wisdom—rooted in both modern science and Indian traditions.

You'll discover how to decode your biological age, understand the science of ageing, and apply breakthroughs in metabolism, movement, and mental well-being. The book offers a clear four-part journey: understanding ageing, building strong foundations, evaluating tools and innovations, and finally creating a personalized roadmap for vitality. With practical chapter recaps, real-life Code Creator stories, and a toolkit to guide your health journey, The Longevity Code helps you build not just a longer life—but a more vital one. Designed for thinkers, doers, and seekers, this is your blueprint for resilience and human potential.

Dr SOPHIA PATHAI is a British Indian medical doctor with a PhD in the biology of ageing. Trained at University College London and the London School of Hygiene & Tropical Medicine, her research was among the first to identify biological markers of accelerated ageing in diverse populations. She has led global medical teams at companies including AbbVie and Johnson & Johnson, and most recently helped advance longevity innovation in the Gulf.

PULLELA GOPICHAND is one of India's most respected sports leaders and a pioneer in high-performance coaching. A former All England Champion and Chief National Coach of Indian badminton, he has guided multiple Olympic medalists and reshaped the nation's sporting mindset through his philosophy of discipline, resilience and balance. Honoured with the Padma Bhushan, Padma Shri, and Dronacharya Award, he continues to redefine athlete wellbeing and human potential.

Unlock the power of your mind—and watch your world transform!

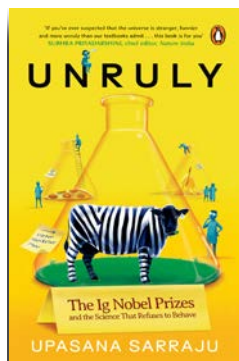

What if everything you've ever wanted is already within your reach—waiting for you to master the mindset to claim it?

The Manifestation Mindset is a practical and science-backed guide to unlocking the extraordinary power of your mind and using it consciously to create a deeply fulfilling life. Drawing from years of coaching experience, Vrindda offers a refreshing take on manifestation—one that moves beyond wishful thinking to grounded, actionable transformation.

Unlike most books that glorify manifestation as a mystical force, this one reveals the true secret: the mind only manifests what it is trained to believe, feel and act upon daily. Through powerful insights and easy-to-follow exercises at the end of each chapter, readers will learn how to build clarity, focus, discipline, and emotional balance—the real building blocks of success.

Covering four essential areas—health, relationships, money and career—The Manifestation Mindset helps readers unblock their energy, manage stress, and align their thoughts with purposeful action. It's not just a guide to achieving goals—it's a blueprint for mastering your mind, transforming your habits, and manifesting the life you truly desire.

VRINDDA BHATT boasts over twenty-three years of experience in the wellness industry. She started her journey as a physical fitness coach, and today, she's a renowned holistic wellness coach, advocating for the mind's potential to co-create harmony and happiness in every aspect of life.

The highly anticipated sequel to the bestseller Black Warrant, former Tihar superintendent Sunil Gupta returns with the untold stories of India's most daring jailbreaks

What happens when a jailer becomes the witness to the country's most explosive secrets?

In Red Alert, Tihar's long-serving superintendent Sunil Gupta returns with another unflinching look into the underbelly of India's prisons—this time from the frontlines of riots, lockdowns, jailbreaks, and death sentences that shook the nation.

Do jailbirds ever stop dreaming of freedom? Of course not, says Gupta, who spent a lifetime guarding those condemned to stay within Tihar's towering walls. Only the desperate dare to flee—like Charles Sobhraj, who walked out days before his release to dodge a foreign noose, and Sher Singh Rana, Phoolan Devi's killer, who escaped to Afghanistan on a self-proclaimed royal mission.

A rare insider's chronicle of power, crime, and survival within India's largest prison, Red Alert exposes the cracks in the walls meant to contain others—and shows us what freedom, punishment, and humanity really mean.

SUNIL GUPTA began working as a junior officer in Tihar jail in 1981. He eventually rose to become the spokesperson and legal advisor of the jail. He is now practising as a lawyer in the Supreme Court and the Delhi High Court.

SAMANWAYA RAUTRAY has had a long and distinguished journalistic career spanning three decades in several reputed newspapers and publications.

A stunning historical novel set in nineteenth-century Tibet that follows two outsiders

1869. Tibet is closed to Europeans—an infuriating obstruction for the expanding British Empire. In response, Britain begins training Indians—permitted to cross borders that white men may not—to undertake illicit, dangerous surveying expeditions into Tibet.

Balram is one such surveyor-spy, an Indian schoolteacher who, for several years, has worked for the British, often alongside his friend Gyan. But Gyan went missing on his last expedition and is rumoured to be imprisoned within Tibet. Desperate to rescue his friend, Balram agrees to guide an English captain on a foolhardy mission: after years of paying others to do the exploring, the captain, disguised as a monk, wants to personally chart a river that runs through southern Tibet. Their path will cross fatefully with that of another Westerner in disguise, fifty-year-old Katherine. Denied a fellowship in the all-male Royal Geographical Society in London, she intends to be the first European woman to reach Lhasa.

As Balram and Katherine make their way into Tibet, they will face storms and bandits, snow leopards and soldiers, fevers and frostbite. What's more, they will have to battle their own doubts, ambitions, grief, and pasts in order to survive the treacherous landscape.

DEEPA ANAPPARA'S debut novel, Djinn Patrol on the Purple Line, was named one of the best books of the year by the New York Times, Washington Post, Time, Guardian and NPR. It won the Edgar Award for Best Novel, was longlisted for the Women's Prize for Fiction, shortlisted for the JCB Prize for Indian Literature, and included in Time's 100 Best Mystery and Thriller Books of All Time. It has been translated into more than twenty languages. Anappara is the co-editor of Letters to a Writer of Color, a collection of personal essays on fiction, race and culture.

A vivid collection of voices that succinctly capture what Goan identity means today!

Rooted in Goa's history yet alive to its present, Appetite is a heartfelt tribute to Goa itself—its salt-washed shores, spice-laden air, delectable cuisine, and the unquenchable appetite that pulses at the heart of the land and its people. The Goa writers invite readers to savour not only the stories told but the world that makes them possible.

SHIVRANJANA RATHORE is a writer and artist based in Goa. With existentialism at the centre of her practice—leaning towards the absurd and the surreal—she works across multiple mediums: books, comics, zines and installations.

TINO DE SA, an IAS officer, is twice winner of the Times of India National Short Story Competition. He has three books to his credit and was shortlisted for the 2025 Commonwealth Short Story Prize.

A novel that transforms an ancient parable into a profound exploration of devotion, desire and destiny

In the foothills of the Himalayas, a simple act upends an ancient parable. This time, it is the lady who carries the monk across the river.

Through the intertwined fates of Guru Brihaspati, his celibate disciples Kevala and Gyan, and the enigmatic Mandakini, The Lady Who Carried the Monk Across the River explores the tension between spirituality and desire, the sacred and the profane, and the elusive unity of both. As Kevala and his guru engage in a five-day debate on the meaning of a fulfilling life, the river becomes both a literal and symbolic divide—one that must be crossed daily, not just in body but in spirit.

Tautly woven with philosophy, passion and profound questions, this novel is no sermon. It is a story of real lives, intense choices and the irresistible force of Shakti. Can the pursuit of transcendence and the pull of earthly love coexist? In just five days, lifetimes of belief are tested, and the answers may be as fluid as the river itself.

PAVAN K. VARMA, a writer-diplomat, is a graduate in history from St Stephen's College (securing the top position in the college), after which he took a degree in law from the University of Delhi. He joined the Indian Foreign Service in 1976. A well-known translator and writer of depth and insight, he has written over a dozen bestselling books, including Adi Shankaracharya: Hinduism's Greatest Thinker and Becoming Indian.

Creeping Shadows brings to you thirteen tales of chills and that knotted feeling in your heart

The stories in Creeping Shadows span a vast canvas, both in time and locale. A teahouse in ancient China. A brothel in nineteenth-century Calcutta. A forest lodge in Bankura. An old mansion in Bangladesh. A university campus in today's Delhi. Beginning as human-interest narratives, they end with sudden, unexpected twists that raise hair-ends and send trickles of ice down the spine. Here are tales of shadows, tingles and chills...

ARUNA CHAKRAVARTI has fourteen published books. Her first novel, The Inheritors, was shortlisted for the Commonwealth Writers' Prize, and her third, Jorasanko, received critical acclaim and became a bestseller.

A unique commentary on India and where we stand as a country today

What exactly is 'New India'? In this satirical graphic novel, journalist Aakar Patel acts as our guide, dragging along his optimistic nephew, his dogs and a cast of public voices as they examine the nation's great claims and the realities beneath them. Through conversations, history and true stories, the book unpacks how government decisions shape how free, safe, prosperous and healthy we really are. A witty, accessible political primer.

AAKAR PATEL is a syndicated columnist who has edited English and Gujarati newspapers. His books include Why I Write (2014), Price of the Modi Years (2021), Our Hindu Rashtra (2020) and After Messiah (2023). He is the chair of Amnesty International India.

From the brilliant Booker-longlisted Mohammed Hanif comes a lively, rich novel about the power of language, friendship and protest in the face of political turmoil

When a major Pakistani political figure is hanged, OK Town erupts in protest.

A few miles away, Sir Baghi is surprised by a knock on the door of the Rebel English Academy, his tuition centre that offers affordable English lessons. An unexpected visitor, Sabiha, seeks refuge at the Academy, but she has a gun, her parents are political prisoners, her husband has just died in a suspicious fire, and she is clearly hiding something. Baghi encourages Sabiha to write, and throughout the book her life unspools on the page.

Meanwhile, Captain Gul, a disgraced intelligence officer, has been banished to OK Town, where he aims to silence protesters by any means necessary. But his duties—and romantic desires—begin to overlap, and his already-dubious power is further threatened.

In Rebel English Academy, Pakistan is coming into modernity, struggling under martial law after the execution of its former leader.

MOHAMMED HANIF'S first novel, A Case of Exploding Mangoes, was longlisted for the Man Booker Prize, shortlisted for the Guardian First Book Award and won the Commonwealth Writers' Prize for Best First Novel. His second novel, Our Lady of Alice Bhutto, was shortlisted for the 2012 Wellcome Prize. He writes regularly for New York Times, BBC Urdu and BBC Punjabi.

The king of romance pens the last of his trilogy of love!

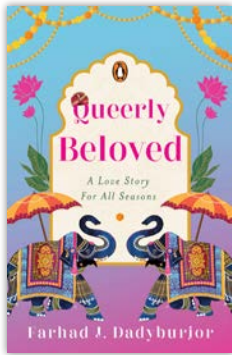

I could never have predicted that one day I would look at someone—just casually—and be completely drawn to her. So, when I first saw her, even though my eyes followed her around, my senses registered her beautiful, tall figure, her graceful movements, I did nothing. And I didn't overthink it either.

But she stayed with me.

And then I gave in. So, when life began to ask questions, I didn't know what to say...

Half of Forever is a love story that redefines love and its boundaries, its questions, and that which makes it elusive in today's times.

RAVINDER SINGH is a bestselling Indian author known for romance novels like I Too Had a Love Story and Can Love Happen Twice? He runs a hugely popular platform to bring singles together called Let's Socialise.

Winner of the 31st Gratiaen Prize, this explores the complex legacies of colonial exploitation in a fictionalized Sri Lanka

In the twenty-first century, Katharina lives on an island. She earns a living by baking and exporting cakes made from an old recipe she found in the house she inherited. A fugitive, Rajiv, takes refuge in Katharina's home, and she reluctantly agrees to shelter him from the police.

In the seventeenth century, the island is controlled by a powerful European trading enterprise: the Company. Santiago builds an imposing house for himself and chooses as his bride a local woman, Maria, who has inherited one of the best pepper farms in the area. But the casually brutal deputy governor of the island is determined to seize control of its lucrative pepper trade, and tragedy follows.

RAMYA JIRASINGHE works in Sri Lanka for an international charity supporting child rights. She studied in London for several years and holds an MA in Comparative Literature from the University of London. She is a published poet and short story writer.

Plunges you into a realm of dark folklore, nail-biting horror and heart-wrenching drama—where unbreakable oaths and ancient demons collide with one man's desperate fight for hope

Amit Juneja's debut novel, Vikram & Betaal: Night of the Blood Moon, plunges you into a realm of dark folklore, nail-biting horror and heart-wrenching drama—where unbreakable oaths and ancient demons collide with one man's desperate fight for hope. Vikram & Betaal reimagines the iconic Betal Pachisi tale, blending mythology with deeply human themes of morality, sacrifice and destiny. It is a modern, moving retelling that resonates with fans of traditional storytelling and contemporary fiction alike.

AMIT JUNEJA is a unique voice in contemporary fiction, and his Instagram page, Sunny Sideup Stories, stands out as one of the few platforms successfully building a massive, loyal audience around long-format storytelling. Amit delivers meticulously crafted long-form prose—formatted as beautifully as any novel—and has cultivated an audience of genuine readers eager for thoughtful, immersive stories.

A wickedly funny, darkly tender literary gem that simmers with satire and sparkle

In this deliciously dark Sri Lankan romantic comedy, the lines between hero and villain are smudged at best. Love arrives wearing strange disguises, politics gets deeply personal, and redemption might just be a rumour. At the centre of it all is Karma, who may well be the true leading lady.

As arch-villain and local MP Biju puts it with a shrug and a knowing look: 'If you don't ride your Karma, one day your Karma's going to ride you.'

ASHOK FERREY is the author of seven books, all of them variously nominated for the Gratiaen Prize (Sri Lanka's premier literary prize), the State Literary Award and the DSC Prize. His last book, The Unmarriageable Man, went on to win the Gratiaen. His first book, Colpetty People, remains Sri Lanka's top-selling book twenty years after its first publication.

Punjab's rarely revealed dark side laid bare

Punjabi Dalit writing, despite its volume and visibility, struggles to find a space of recognition both within Punjab and outside it. The Punjabi Dalit short story has passed through distinct phases, and its history in shorthand offers an idea of the shifts Dalit expression has undergone in Punjab over the years. Gangrene is the first such collection in English that lays bare a rarely seen side of Punjab.

AKSHAYA KUMAR is professor of English at Punjab University, Patiala.

Remember simplicity isn't the absence of sophistication, rather it is finding clarity amidst chaos. If you are overwhelmed with clutter, see how a shift to simplicity can reduce outside noise and unlock smarter solutions.

A compelling read that offers unique insights into building and scaling traditional businesses in India

Unlike most entrepreneurship books that focus on venture-backed start-ups, this work examines the journey of creating sustainable, profitable companies through bootstrapping. What sets this book apart is its focus on 'upstart' companies—traditional businesses that succeed through incremental innovations and operational excellence rather than disruptive technology.

NARASIMHAN RAGHAVAN is a successful entrepreneur who bootstrapped, built and sold a national logistics business in India that employed thousands of people for over a decade.

India's top 10 per cent founders reveal their secret mantras to build successful companies

This book is for anyone dreaming of starting their venture, those already on the entrepreneurial journey, or even those who have seen family members run a successful business and underestimated the challenges involved. Each chapter discusses one key concept, backed by insights and real stories from elite founders, who have gone through the grit of running a startup. And because they have overcome the challenges thrown at them, they have accumulated wisdom and practical approaches that can benefit other entrepreneurs who would be walking on the same path.

UTSAV SOMANI, is the founder of Offline, India's most exclusive community of scaled-up tech founders. Early members include co-founders of Zomato, Country Delight, Ultrahuman, Noise, CoinDCX and many more.

An original re-imagining of Indian history through the lens of commerce, geography, and culture, through the movement of wealth

A hugely original take on how networks of wealth were created in India from time immemorial to recent times, with a Foreword by Devdutt Pattanaik. It is an entirely different kind of history—not the usual dynasties and kings, but a lively, accessible look at all the elements that make history—the landscape, trade, markets, and people—all meticulously researched and very well written and accompanied by maps, tables and illustrations.

AKSHAY CHAVAN is a writer, historian and anthropologist with over two decades of experience in exploring and documenting India's rich heritage and cultural landscapes.

An extraordinary memoir of leadership, vision and innovation from the industry icon, Sanjiv Mehta

Sanjiv Mehta began his career at Union Carbide India Ltd following the tragic Bhopal Gas disaster. He later joined Hindustan Lever (now Hindustan Unilever Limited) in 1998, initially leading operations. By early 2002, he had risen to the position of chairman, overseeing Unilever Bangladesh. His vision and strategic acumen led him to manage territories in the Philippines, North Africa and the Middle East. In 2013, he became the chairman and managing director of HUL. Under his leadership, HUL's market capitalization grew significantly, making it one of India's top five most valuable companies. From a middle-class Indian upbringing to leading one of the world's most valuable consumer goods companies, Sanjiv Mehta's three-decade career offers a wealth of leadership lessons that bridge legacy and innovation. Held with some career defining moments, Sanjiv Mehta's memoir is a must read for young aspiring leaders.

SANJIV MEHTA is a business leader who led Hindustan Unilever Limited for a decade, shaping it into one of India's most valuable companies. He is known for driving growth with purpose, championing sustainability, women's empowerment and rural entrepreneurship. After serving on several global and Indian boards, he began a new chapter in 2024 as executive chairman, India, at L. Catterton.

From the celebrated legacy of Kashmiri-American writer, Agha Shahid Ali, comes a selection of his best poems.

The poems in The Last Speaker allow the reader to be immersed in history, memory and nostalgia that Agha Shahid Ali wove into the tapestries he created as he evolved as a poet. Ranging from free verse to traditional poetic forms, his poetry encompasses canzones, sestinas, sonnets, sapphics, pantoums, villanelles, prose poems and, of course, ghazals in English.

AGHA SHAHID ALI wrote nine poetry collections, Bone-Sculpture (1972), Begum Akhtar (1979), The Half-Inch Himalayas (1987), A Walk Through the Yellow Pages (1987), A Nostalgist's Map of America (1991), The Beloved Witness: Selected Poems (1992), The Country Without a Post Office (1997), Rooms Are Never Finished (2002) and Shahid's own book of ghazals, Call Me Ishmael Tonight (2003, published posthumously). His book of translations of Faiz Ahmed Faiz's selected poems, The Rebel's Silhouette was published in 1991, and a second edition in 1995.

The Alphabets of Africa is an ode to a continent that continues to define the human journey. Through time, space and memory these poems map Africa, celebrating its vast and vibrant tapestry. From the splendour of its ancient civilization to the pulse of contemporary African cities, to inspiring icons and leaders, this book summons Africa in all its depth and glory. Drawn from Abhay K.'s travels across Africa, these poems are an invitation to shed the inherited stereotypes and see Africa afresh.

Abhay K. is the author of the bestseller Nalanda: How it Changed the World and several poetry collections. He is the editor of The Book of Bihari Literature, Capitals, New Brazilian Poems and The Bloomsbury Anthology of Great Indian Poems.

A river of memory and myth—where language becomes both wound and renewal

The Yellow Metaphor gathers three decades of luminous poetry by Jiban Narah, rooted in the Mising and Assamese worlds yet universal in spirit. Translated by Anindita Kar, these poems pulse with river and memory, weaving nature, myth and politics into an elegy of displacement and a timeless song of renewal.

JIBAN NARAH is a well-known poet from Assam.

ANINDITA KAR is an eminent translator.

A collection of one hundred meditative reflections on strength, softness and self-love

In a world that glorifies speed, perfection and performance, Aisha Sharma offers a quiet rebellion—an invitation to slow down and return to your own rhythm, your own truth, your own heart.

Each reflection is a gentle mirror, guiding you from self-abandonment to self-trust, from seeking to belonging, from tenderness to quiet power. With lyrical warmth and unflinching honesty, Bloom reminds us that transformation isn't about becoming someone new, but about remembering who you've always been.

AISHA SHARMA is an actor, former model and a digital creator with a strong presence on social media.
