SUPRITA DAS is a sports journalist and author of Shadow Fighter: A Biography of Sarita Devi and Free Hit: The Story of Women's Cricket in India (HarperCollins India). During the 2025 Women's World Cup, she worked on location as a Features Producer with the ICC, witnessing India's history-making win on November 3 from the front row.

Women in Blue: The Rise of India's World Cup-Winning Women's Cricket Team

SUPRITA DAS

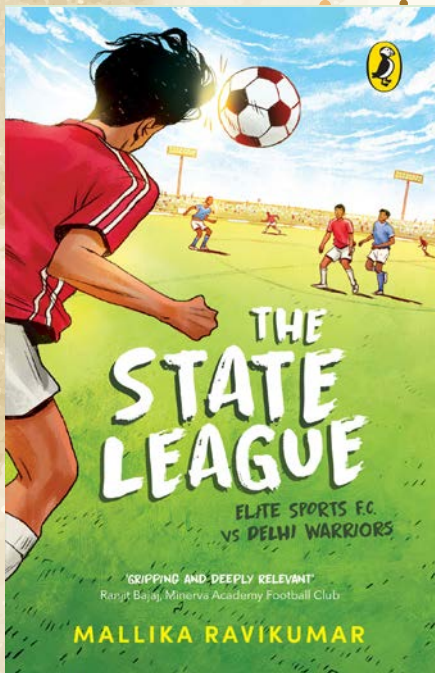

Cricket's New Queens: Real Stories, Real Strength.

From dusty small-town fields and makeshift pitches, sixteen extraordinary women rise to cricketing glory through sheer talent, resilience and a shared dream. Meet trailblazers like Harmanpreet Kaur, Smriti Mandhana, Jemimah Rodrigues and Deepti Sharma—who battled scarce resources and sky-high odds to forge a team that powered India to its historic 2025 World Cup victory.

From a girl who disguised herself as her brother to play cricket to a world champion who first played the game with sticks and potatoes, this book is no stats sheet. Discover how these heroes overcame challenges, ignored the odds and achieved a triumph that inspired millions.

Vivid, action-packed and deeply inspiring, Women in Blue captures the sweat, the cheers and the sisterhood behind the greatest moment in Indian women's cricket.

Once a lawyer by profession, MALLIKA RAVIKUMAR now writes books on Indian history, culture and nature. In her spare time, she enjoys learning about trees, and shares stories and snippets about trees on her YouTube channel, in a series entitled Tree Talk with Mallika Ravikumar.

The State League

MALLIKA RAVIKUMAR

Illustrations by GOVINDA SAO

Committed to football. Committed to the nation.

Prithvi is back—older, sharper, and hungry to prove himself at Elite Sports F.C. When a glittering new youth league promises foreign scouts, European tours and IPL-style broadcasts, his dreams finally feel within reach.

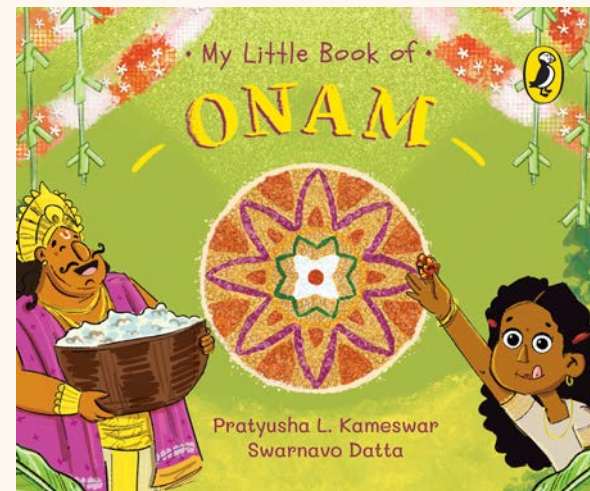

But the beautiful game has a dark side. Matches are being fixed. Players are being groomed. And those in charge are looking away. As Prithvi fights to stay relevant, the ugly trail leads closer to home than he ever imagined. Meanwhile, his best friend on the team—a boy from Manipur—is at the centre of a national controversy, fracturing a bond that once felt unbreakable.

In a league where results can be decided before kick-off and ambition and loyalty are questioned, Prithvi faces a gut-wrenching choice: stay silent and chase the win, or risk everything to speak out?

PARVATI SHARMA is a Delhi-based author. Her debut was a collection of short stories called The Dead Camel and Other Stories of Love. She has also written a novel, Close to Home; a historical biography, Jahangir: An Intimate Portrait of a Great Mughal; and two books for children, The Story of Babur and Rattu & Poorie's Adventures in History: 1857.

Rattu & Poorie's Adventures in History: Animals in Art

PARVATI SHARMA
 Illustrations by MEGHNA MENON

Join Rattu and Poorie on brand-new adventures through India's past!

Rattu and Poorie are having perfectly ordinary days: a quiet afternoon at home, a long car ride to the beach and a lazy morning in the park with Papa and Roundy the cat. But ordinary days never stay ordinary for long.

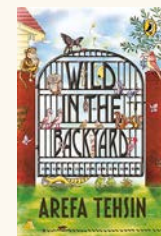

A magical hunting hound appears beside Poorie's bed to tell the tale of an ancient hero stone. A dignified bull, a mysterious unicorn and an enigmatic tiger arrive from the Indus Valley civilization with stories hidden in undeciphered seals. And in a lakeside park, a gloomy dodo and two lovestruck saras cranes step out of Emperor Jahangir's menagerie to speak of memory, art and all the creatures the world must not forget.

So begin Rattu and Poorie's grand adventures through India's past, and their encounters with heroic dogs, ancient seals, imperial birds and animals whose stories still survive in art.

Wild Next Door

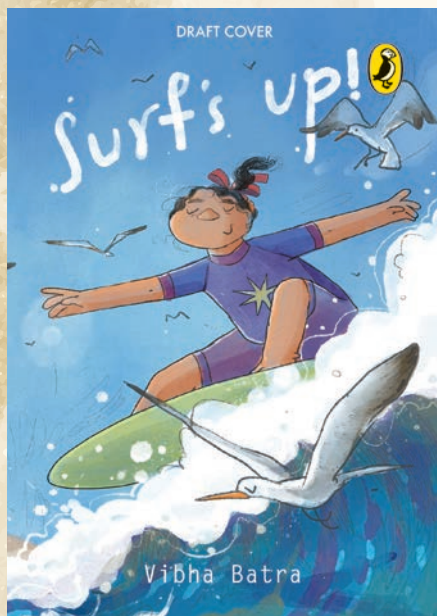

AREFA TEHSIN

Your backyard is buzzing—meet the wild, weird and wonderful neighbours you never noticed.

Grab your explorer hat and magnifying glass—your home and garden are packed with tiny oddballs and mighty misfits! Meet porch-loving hornets, wall-munching termites, shiny skinks sunbathing in the sun, poop-rolling beetles, glowing fireflies, rainbow-coloured guppies, and even a fish that seems to know how to walk.

Some of these critters work hard, some are champion nappers, some have long sticky tongues, and some can smell your breath before dropping by for a tiny sip of blood. You'll also discover earthworms with many hearts, a bird that keeps a ridiculously messy nest, and a flatworm that can grow back if it's cut in half.

Funny, fascinating and full of surprises, this is your ticket to the secret world of creatures living right beside you.

VIBHA BATRA is an author, poet, advertising consultant, graphic novelist, lyricist, translator, playwright, scriptwriter, travel writer, columnist, speaker and creative writing mentor. She has published twenty-four books—many of which have won prestigious awards, bestseller tags and readers' hearts.

Surf's Up!

VIBHA BATRA

Waves, wits and a whole lot of heart!

Nine-year-old Stella Vijai loves two things: her seaside village of Corolam and surfing the wild, whispering waves. But when families start leaving for 'better lives', Corolam begins shrinking, and Stella refuses to let her home disappear.

She hatches a brilliant plan—the first-ever Corolam Beach Festival—to bring visitors, vendors and hopeful new beginnings. Now Stella must wrangle sceptical adults, outsmart a bully who sabotages their efforts, and face a sudden fear of the sea that threatens her confidence and the whole festival.

With a grumpy old fisherman muttering 'Disaster!', Stella and her friends race to turn the tide, mend old rifts and prove that home is worth fighting for. Will Corolam be saved—or wiped out?

CHANDAN DESHMUKH is a thirty-something TEDx speaker, an electronics and communication engineer by chance and a SAP basis engineer by profession. Chandan's continual public embarrassments in parent-teacher meetings, combined with his never-ending self-doubt in his career, led him to research hacks and best practices that people can easily apply in their daily lives. His first love is theatre. When he was a child, he acted in a Kannada movie and a TV serial. When he is not frightening his family with weird philosophies, he is likely to be swimming, travelling or bungee jumping.

How to Survive Student Life

CHANDAN DESHMUKH

Marks matter. But your mindset matters more.

Most students don't figure out life.

They stumble into it—sleep-deprived, distracted, running on last-minute panic.

This book is about to change that.

In How to Survive Student Life, Chandan Deshmukh offers a practical, no-nonsense guide to navigating academics, habits and the bigger question: What am I doing with my life?

Blending ancient learning principles with modern science, he shows us why real learning still comes down to time, attention and discipline.

THE CENTRE FOR CONTEMPORARY FOLKLORE (CCF) is committed to preserving, promoting, and celebrating India's rich and diverse folk heritage. At CCF, folklore is understood not as a static remnant of the past but as a living, evolving tradition that continues to shape cultural identities. Through research, documentation and sustained engagement with communities, CCF seeks to ensure that these stories, practices and traditions remain vibrant and accessible for generations to come.

Earth Tales: Folklore About India's Nature, Wildlife and Environment

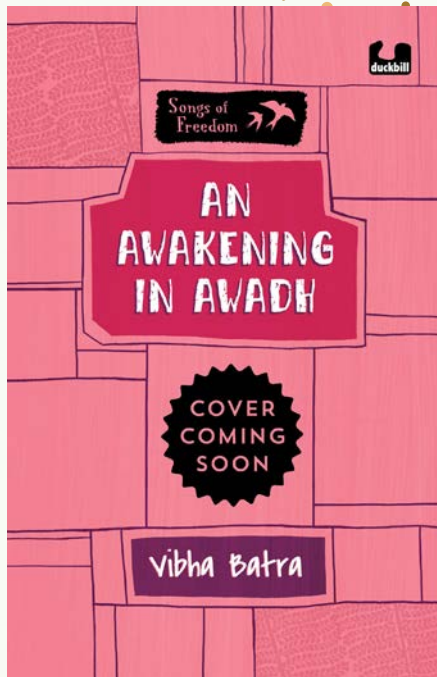

THE CENTRE FOR CONTEMPORARY FOLKLORE

A one-of-a-kind illustrated collection of Indian folk tales from every corner of the country.

The folk stories of India are often told by people who live close to the land. And in them, the mountains and forests and birds and animals are an integral part of everyday life and as much characters as humans.

In this delightful collection, there are tales from every state and union territory in the country, from the many tribes and communities for whom India is home. All the stories are gorgeously illustrated in traditional art styles derived from areas in which the stories originate. And in reading this book, we not only celebrate the colour and diversity of the country we live in, but also the age-old challenges and bonds that bind us to nature and to one another.

SHALINI SRINIVASAN likes animals, walks and nonsense. Her first novel, Vanamala and the Cephalopod is a Crossword Book Award nominee and was featured in the prestigious White Ravens international catalogue.

A Forest Calls

SHALINI SRINIVASAN

Forest time is not human time. Forests dream and wake to different rhythms from us.

When Raksha moves to Basavakere at the edge of a waking forest, she finds a magnificent library, an exciting new quest, and peculiar new maybe—friends. But Savitha seems to prefer studying to adventuring, and Pol is oddly cagey, especially about the forest. Also cagey: the other new resident, a visitor from the past who is sometimes canine, sometimes human and always mysterious.

When he is kidnapped, Savitha, Pol, and Raksha must brave many dangers, known and unknown to rescue him—steel-limbed ukkukai, strange oceanic beasts, vengeful monarchs, the Creepy Corps, parents, times past and present, board exams, the vast grasping forest, and, looming closer and closer, the future.

An utterly fantastical and magical story, A Forest Calls will touch a chord deep within every reader.
